XJS-Aftermarket Parts - Introduction

Notes:

The purpose of this document is to identify vendors of aftermarket parts by the part type. You will notice that different vendors often show different ranges of years that a particular part will fit. Vendors' catalogs are frequently in error as to model year application. It would be useful to know what years will fit your particular car, in case you see a vendor who has the part, but doesn't include your car in the range of years that the part fits. In addition, some of the Beck Arnley information came from a catalog that listed parts for 1985 forward. 1984 and prior years were in a separate catalog. Do not assume that parts labeled 85-91 will not fit HE models from earlier years. In addition, do not assume that Beck Arnley does not offer parts for pre-HE models. Check with your vendor, and always double check part numbers, as I may have made errors in copying them down

Caution: Different manufacturer's catalogs offer conflicting information regarding the year in which a change was made (e.g. A/C expansion valves). If you come across this, be sure to bring in your old part when buying the new one.

In addition, sometimes the manufacturers catalogs are FLAT OUT WRONG. For example, the front wheel inner grease seal changed with the introduction of ABS, yet virtually every catalog lists the pre-ABS seal for ABS models.

Rebuilt starters and alternators are widely available. Lucas has purchased many regional rebuilders, and lists rebuilt units for Jaguars. No doubt there are many other rebuilders who are not listed here.

Although not listed in Bosch catalogs, a Bosch dealer assured me that a Bosch supplier could supply any Bosch part by number. This should apply to power window motors, relays, fuel injection and ABS parts. However, it is possible that Bosch may have an agreement with Jaguar to sell certain part numbers only directly to Jaguar. For example, this may be the case with window motors. You may be able to buy, from Bosch, the exact motor used in the XJS, but with a different connector, or even the same connector, but under a different part number. You'll never know until you try. Of course, a knowledgeable parts man would be a big help (IF you can find one).

Certain common parts such as spark plugs or brake pads are not listed. Virtually any supplier can provide a listing for these items.

I have no information on how to locate a retail vendor of most of the brands listed here. For mail order, try www.carparts.com. My main intent is to make the reader aware of the types of parts that are likely to be available from the aftermarket. In the course of compiling this data, it became clear that many vendors are repackaging parts that have been obtained from another source. In many cases, both the manufacturer and the re-seller use the same part number.

The vendors listed here are primarily U.S. based. This is mainly due to the fact that those are the vendors whose information was readily accessible to me. If someone can point me to catalog listings for UK and Australian suppliers, I will include that information in later versions. With the rise of Internet-based businesses, many suppliers are willing to ship internationally. If you cannot obtain what you want locally, check to see if it makes sense to have it shipped from the US, England or Australia. In some cases (such as the AAV rebuild kit, this may be your only option, other than going to the dealer.

At this point, this listing deals only with non-original, aftermarket parts that are cataloged as Jaguar parts. There are sometimes parts that fit other cars, which are either a direct replacement, or can be made to fit. There are also many sources for Jaguar original parts other than Jaguar dealers (e.g. Welsh Enterprises, Coventry West, H.D. Rogers, Paul's Jaguar Parts, www.jagbits.com, www.thepartsbin.com, etc). Both of these categories are covered in Kirby Palm's Experience in a Book.

Disclaimer: You are advised to sanity check the data yourself, and inspect the part carefully before installing (always good advice). The usual disclaimers apply, that is, you take the responsibility for the use of this information or any consequences from usage of these parts. Use your own judgment. If you do not want to use such judgment and be prepared for anomalies, get the exact original part from the dealer. Or, have the dealer or a qualified mechanic do the entire repair for you.

If you discover bad data here, please notify me.

(Caution: This may only fix Series III XJ6. Check carefully.)

Blower Motor – Darlington Transistor

Industry Standard Number 2N6284
Motorola number MJ11016

Brake - ABS Accumulator

Lemfoerder Metallwaren GmbH, 28036 Bremen, Germany
89 on 834 000 008

According to Peter Paris, you can also use:

GM 25528382
AC/Delco 25528382

(US $72.62 from www.keltners.com - minimum order $500
US$82.67 from www.gmpartsdirect.com.)

I believe the same accumulator ball is used on 1989 – 93 Saab (P/N 4002267), as well as some BMWs, but may not be any cheaper from them.

Reconditioned spheres in the UK are available from: <http://www.pleiades.uk.com/>

Fan

There are no known aftermarket manufacturers of XJS fans, however, Odysseus Marcolpus reports that he was able to make the following combination fit a 5.3L V12

Imperial Fan Clutch	215016
Flex-a-lite Thermal Fan		5717

Fan Clutch

Note: There is evidence to suggest that aftermarket fan clutches do not fit onto the new-style black fans.

Bosch

Inlet

0 280 160 234

original unit part # 0-280-160-229

0-280-160-214

Per Richard Chapman:

“The original has a bracket which allows it to be positioned only 1 way on the manifold bracket. The replacement does not so it can be mounted at any angle. This is not a problem because the angle is obvious when you have just removed the old regulator. Threads for connection are identical.”

O-Rings

In the absence of a better method, I will compile O-ring sizes here, so that you may buy them generically. Buy Viton type O-rings. They are better able to withstand high temperatures.

Power Window Motor (New)

	Right	0 130 821 299

This motor is a generic version of the Bosch motor fitted from 1990 and retro fitted to 1988 and 1989 cars (requires a different regulator than the Delco) It comes W/O the OE wire harness attached. The Bosch motor has standard 3/8" male type connectors, no harness at all. Modification is required. * The Bosch motor requires 3 bushings & 3 bolts that go between the motor and regulator. 10/99: * Part # for Bushing & Bolt Kit is: BEC10006/7KT available from <http://www.thepartsbin.com/>. (888)628-3247

Power Window Motor (Used)

For "late Delco" motor used from 1987 or 1988 through mid 1990, Don Lawton reports that he was able to use a Delco motor from a 1985 Oldsmobile. It required filing Two bolt holes.

Power Window Motor Gears

Pronto	42-90
For Delco cylindrical window Motors used in coupes through 1987. (Called "window lift gear kit for any GM window regulator using a 46 spline, 12 tooth gear.) DOES NOT FIT LATER RECTANGULAR DELCO MOTORS.

Rack and Pinion Tower Shaft Seal

According to Tom Bennett, the dimensions of this seal are: ID22MM, OD30MM, Height 4MM, but he has successfully used a seal with 6MM height.

According to Patrick MacNamara and Len Olsen, Jaguar used three different OEM suppliers for steering racks: Adwest, Alford, and Alder. Patrick says that Adwest is in all US spec XJS from VIN 107865 to the end of the 1992 model year. The Alford and Alder racks found on some European spec cars (RHD?). They take a different rebuild kit, and Tom Bennet has had problems using the Jaguar issued seal (presumably on a non-Adwest rack.). The sizes listed above are what Tom has used successfully.

According to Len Olsen, this seal can be obtained in the Autozone Power Steering kit for a Chevrolet Camaro (try 1980 350 V8)

Seat Covers

Seat Style Options-

According to Paul, of Paul's Jaguar:

All XJS front seats are interchangeable from the cars 1975 introduction until 1986 model year. For 1987-88 models, the seats appear similar to 1975-86, but the frame under the cushion assembly is totally different to the earlier models and the seat runners are not even close to lining up with the holes on the floor; therefore, 1987-88 seats will not fit earlier cars.

However, even though the seat covers and foams are essentially identical from 1975-88 [embossing from 1975-81, same shape though], the all important diaphragm differs because of the cushion frame therefore 1987-88 diaphragms will not fit the earlier cars and vice versa.

Switches

Newark Electronics (www.newark.com)
 (Information per Donald Neff, prices quoted were as of Sept 2000))
 These switches look exactly like the OEM switches for the power windows and power top in my '91 convertible. Unlike the OEM switches, these are sealed to keep out dirt and moisture. However, they are not quite drop in replacements since they require a simple change to connect them. They have the OEM 0.25" spade lugs for connectors, but 4 of the 6 lugs are turned at an angle and do not match the OEM socket. It is a simple job to cut off the socket and install a crimp-on lug connector on each wire so you can use these superior switches. Earlier MY Jags would require this change anyway because their OEM switches use a round lug.

DPDT - Momentary Contact; used for power windows, convertible top, sun roof; Newark stock # 52F7436; type 8006K52N1V2; $7.39USA

SPDT - On/Off/On; Lighted; I use one to disable my A/C compressor clutch and have wired the light to the clutch relay to let me know when the A/C controls turn the compressor on or off; can also be used with added fans or lights to retain a stock OEM appearance to your dash;

Newark stock # 16F8155; type 8007K20N324V52; $11.45USA.

You'll also need to order one of the following colored lenses for the light:

Green - Newark stock # 16F8159; type 28-5415; $0.30USA

Amber - Newark stock # 16F8160; type 28-5415-2; $0.30USA

Red - Newark stock # 16F8161; type 28-5415-3; $0.30USA

Thermo-Fan Switch

Beck-Arnley lists the same part number for the 85-91 XJS V12 as for the 88-90 XJ40. The one I bought came with two wires that are potted into the switch itself, leading to a cylindrical plastic connector (2 inches long by 1 inch diameter). This part can be used in the XJS V12 by cutting off the connector, and attaching blade connectors to the switch wiring. Someone else reported buying this same number and receiving the correct style for the XJS. This part MAY also be correct for the 92-96 4.0L XJS 6 cyl.

Beck-Arnley XJ 40 and 76-91 V12	201-1151
BAP-Geon	201-1502

(Note the similarity between the Beck-Arnley number and the BAP-Geon number. One of these is probably wrong.)

Throttle Position Sensor

According to John Cunningham, you can use a Clarostat HRS100SSAB-090 Hall-effect sensor. It is not a physical drop-in. For information, search the jag-lovers.or xj-s archives, key word "hall-effect" for 14 November 2002.

Transmission Parts Sources

Although it is not the purpose of this document to list vendors, certain parts are more likely than others to be a problem to locate. The Borg Warner Model 12 transmission falls in this category. (Some sources may be able to supply BW 12 parts by matching them with the FMX transmission used in Ford products.) The following are likely sources of parts for earlier transmissions:

 Sold by Western Auto DP186/172186
 (Per: Paul Bachman, this fit his 1985, but not Kirby's 1983)

Anco 75 – 94 65-01, 61-15

Trico people have reported using 11-100 or 11-512

Tridon WP-186
 (According to Steve Wilke, “fit the space perfectly (even snapping in to the recess of the reservoir), the supplied gasket fit the existing hole in the reservoir, and the electrical connections matched the original harness plug as well!”)
